Editors' Echoooooooooooo

Life is composed of challenges, successes, ideas, ambitions, hopes, loves, and understandings.

Seldom do we pause to consider the relationship of today to our future and how both grow from the past. Scarcely do we acknowledge that the past can never be relived. We dread reaching the end, yet we long for the future. We long for the future, but yearn for the past.

Each man ~~is~~ on a pathway that forever leads into the future, one that will never go back, a circular pathway that every individual follows.... one that winds up to the top.....

And although there are similarities in our experiences, they can never be the same, for each man ~~is~~ forever changing.

As time continues to influence our lives, one grows. As the seasonal cycle affects the trees, so the cycle of time affects our lives. And from a cycle evolves a spiral - a spiral that forever winds upward and upward to the summit.

We have been "there", we are there, we will be there. But where is "there"? "There" is where your expectations center.

With these thoughts in mind, we, the co-editors, have developed the Sousarama '72. All of efforts have been directed at portraying and interpreting the theme throughout the pages of this book. As you "re live" this one part of your journey through life, it is the sincere desire of the entire staff, that you will enjoy reflecting with us on the theme and that all your expectations will become realities.

Volume I

And he stood before a mountain with but one trail . . .
A spiral winding round and round again
reaching ever upward

He would follow this trail towards a summit — still hidden by the clouds

He would climb this mountain towards a future — still hidden by the years

He started on his journey
dense forests, open fields, blue skies storms, steep rocky climbs

He knew them all
freedom, joy, sorrow, tears
laughter, contentment

He felt them all

So many miles
So many years
So much to see
So much to learn

He rested for a while He looked back along his path
As far as his eyes could see
A spiral trail

He would not walk those miles again
nor live those days again
He had only his memories

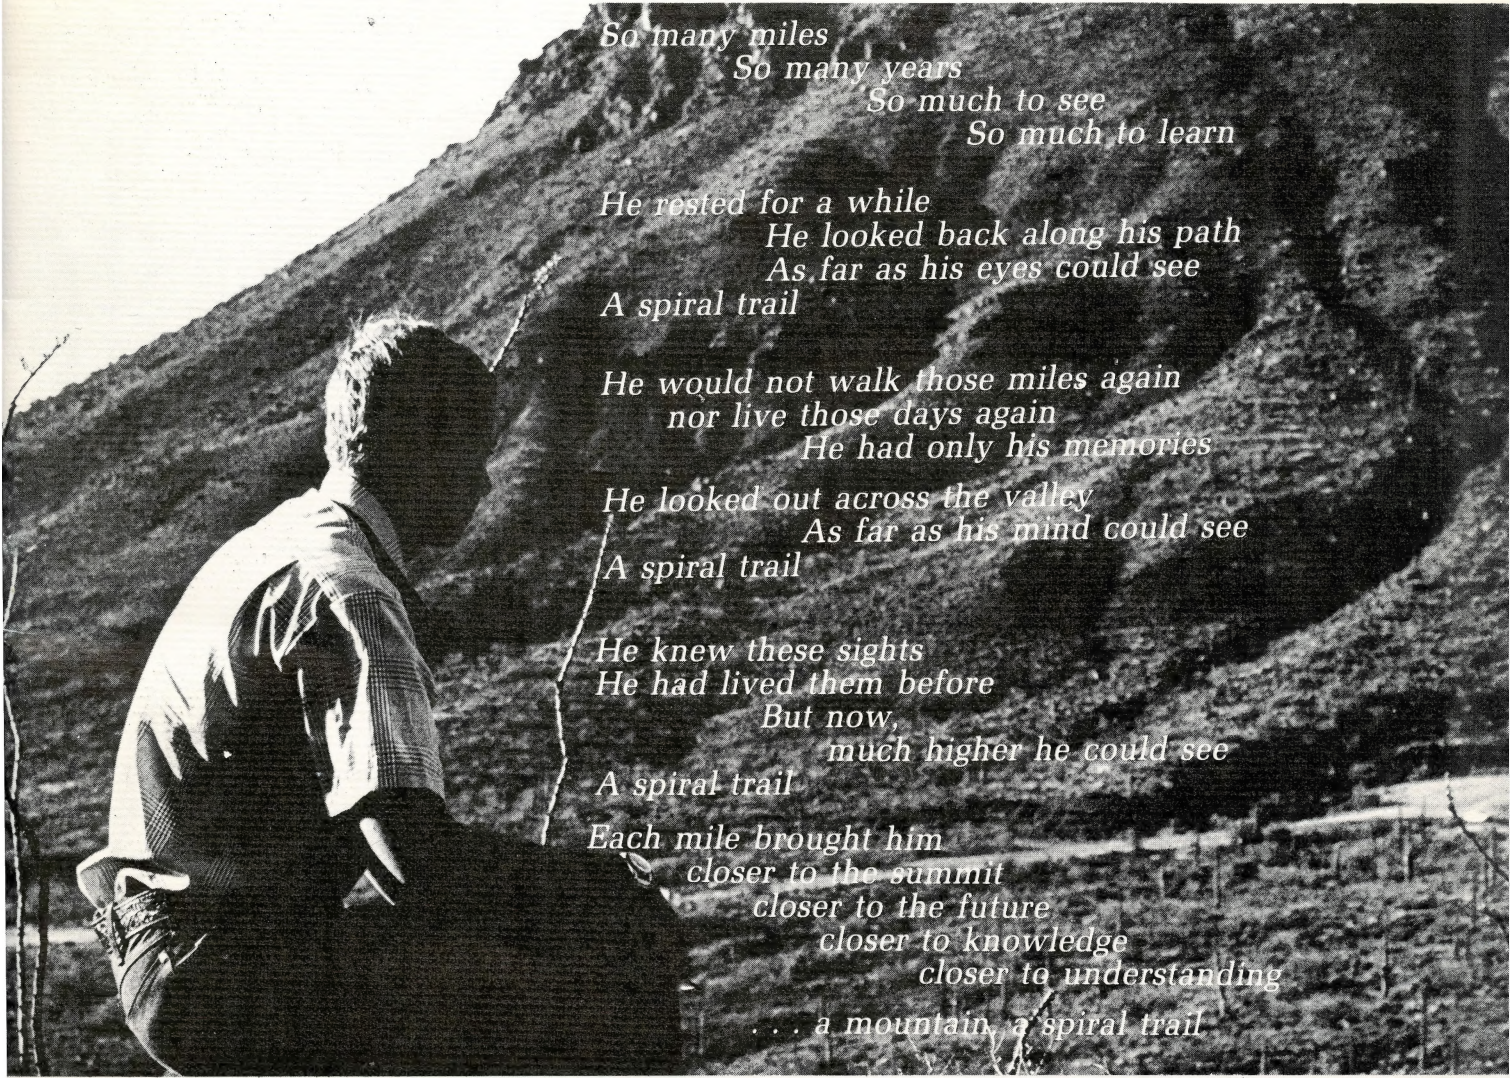

He looked out across the valley
As far as his mind could see
A spiral trail

He knew these sights
He had lived them before
But now,
much higher he could see

A spiral trail

Each mile brought him
closer to the summit
closer to the future
closer to knowledge
closer to understanding
... a mountain, a spiral trail

Each mile brings you
closer to the summit
closer to the future
closer to knowledge
closer to understanding
your mountain . . .

THE MOUNTAIN'S LEVEL

September '71. Seems like we've traveled this path before . . . No, it's a new year, and a new beginning . . . 72 of the 7's work in Pilot 75 while the 9's try to figure out their programs . . . "I've got an hour of social studies?" "When do I eat lunch?" . . . Boys' Freshman Football team does pretty well . . . Soccer and Track have great seasons and the girls' Field Hockey Team out-does itself . . . Jazz combo in our Gym? Why not! Wage price freeze — that's a fix . . . We have our own tropical growths — in the library? . . . Cheering tryouts — the halls ring out with H-E-L-L-O . . . Turkey day, Who won the raffle? . . . Cameras flash all over this year . . . Tic-Tac-Toe . . . is that supposed to be profitable? Stocks reward the Swingers . . . The nine's get their portraits taken, "Smile and say "Yes" No? . . . Christmas vacation is finally here, but where's the snow? Where did the last 10 days go? . . . Watch out fellas, it's leap year and our New Year's resolutions become our first failures of the year . . . Finally, the pep rally. Weber beats our basketball team by a few points (give or take a couple.) GAA cake sale, "Would anybody like to buy the body of a teddy bear?" . . . No, Mr. Glover, the teddy bear . . . Mr. Mulada takes over the eighth grade lunch shift and makes everyone CHOKe. Big Bad John! . . . Hi, Mr. Ditoro, welcome to our school . . . Meanwhile Mr. Gober turns the ninth grade lunch into a gambling casino . . . Double trouble in the lunch room, hamburgers AND frankfurters . . . Locker fires help save on lunchroom gas bills . . . White socks still, Mr. Girillo? . . . There are 132 holes in one block of the ceiling in 102 . . . GAA members bomb out at their own dance . . . Yearbook Co-Editors hunt for a place to take a picture . . . Mr. Costello finds the perfect place, a basic bush . . . Did Nixon have to learn all this Chinese history before he met MAO? Should have used Miss Stewart for a tutor. Good luck Pat . . . Anyone want to play ice hockey with the faculty at 11 PM? . . . Mr. Adams has the strangest habits. He's putting everything in plastic . . . Does that make you mad? Failure notices strike their victims . . . Mr. Acevedo looks different . . . Who's working on Rosemary's shop project today? . . . For ten straight weeks, Mr. Gutlerner and Miss Ré use the same lesson plans on grammar? . . . Finally February vacation is here. We return to find the 8's taking off on a trip to Washington D. C. and Mr. Norwood leaving . . . The play troupe strives for a success . . . Are kids really playing a game in their pajamas? Unisex this year, construction boots, army parkers and embroidered jeans . . . Bio experiments, who will volunteer whom for the next dissection? . . . See Mr. Thomas, we have learned. Spring and sports arrive . . . Who wants to do homework? The concert is a great success and the students WERE playing games in their pajamas. The parents even loved it. Regents replace yo-yo's and jacks . . . Don't Mr. Boyle's blackboards ever get washed? . . . How do we make up all those gym classes? The promotion dance is semi-formal . . . How do you polish your construction boots? And the top becomes bottom, and the bottom becomes middle. Next year, a new start . . .

Dear
Marco,
I'm since
and you're leaving no more room or being in the music room or being in the play together.
But don't worry, it's only for a year.
I can't wait
until we meet once
more.
Be a
good

The World Without Me

Sometimes I wonder what the world would be without. Oh I'm sure it could function, but I wonder if my mind would be in someone else's body. Would I be able to think, hear, smell, touch, see, or to be called by my name? Just one slip in my family tree, if my great grandparents never met, would I still be here? If not, where would I be?

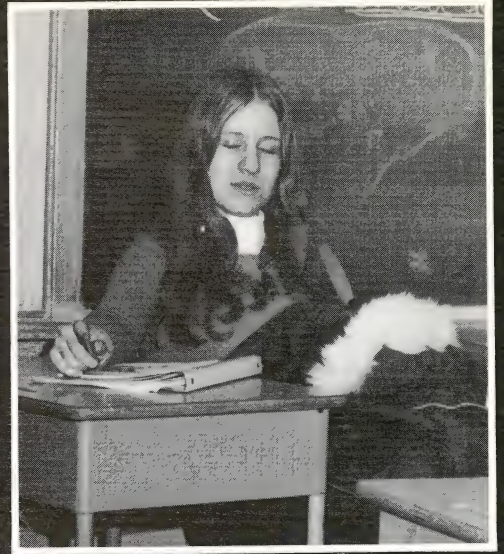

Images of Life

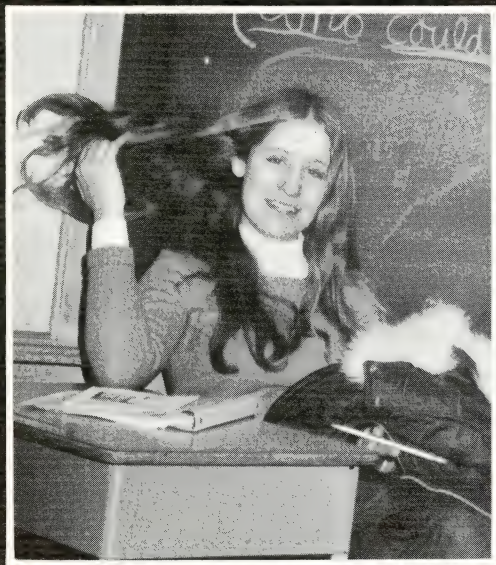

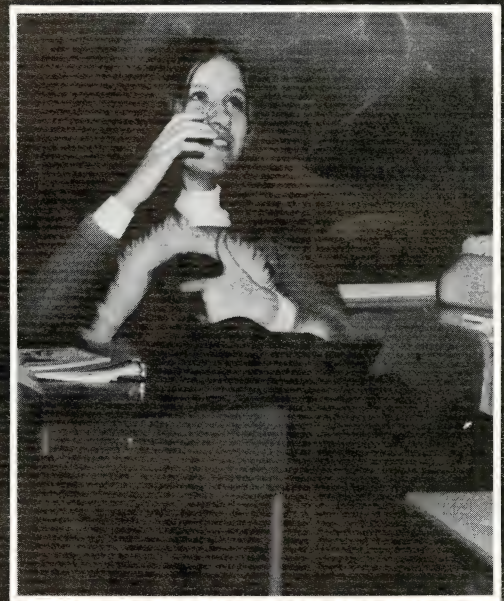

by A. F.

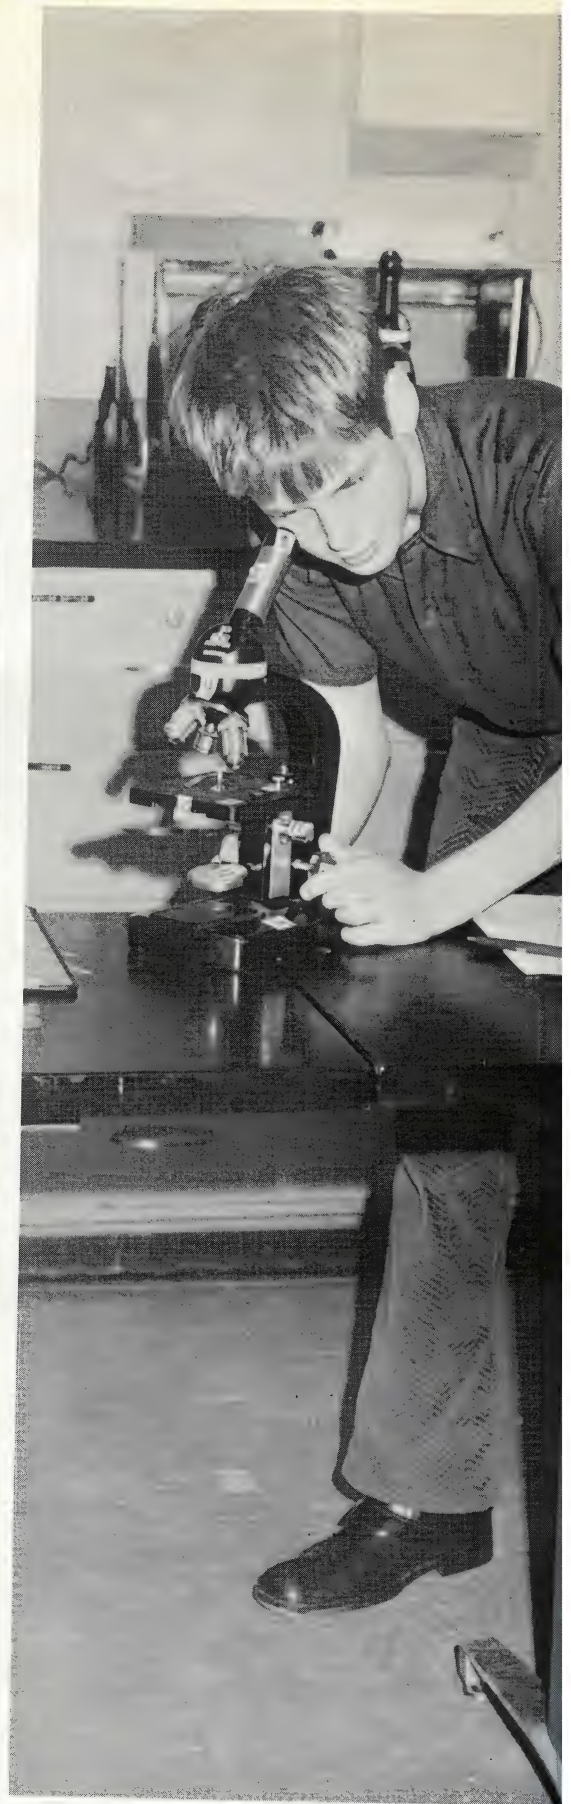

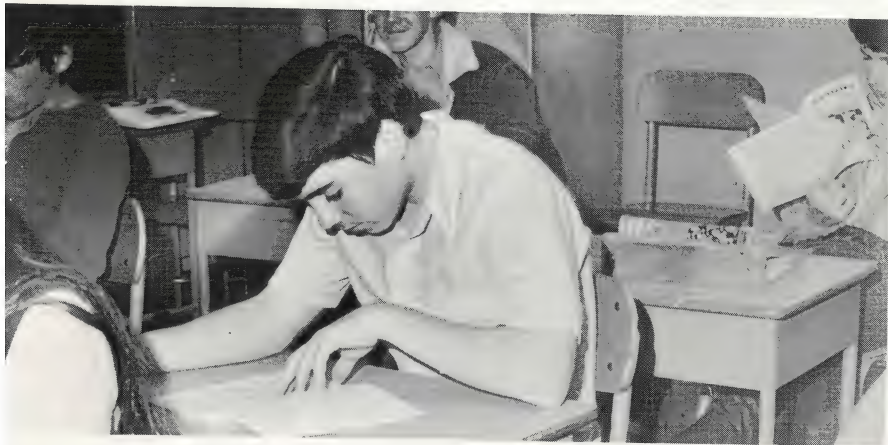

Trees cast a dark shadow
and the sun reflects
its light upon the sedate waters.

Clouds appear - some obscure some unnoticed, but the dock remains stationary, yet to be changed.

The tide slowly edges its way from the shore
leaving behind
naked remains

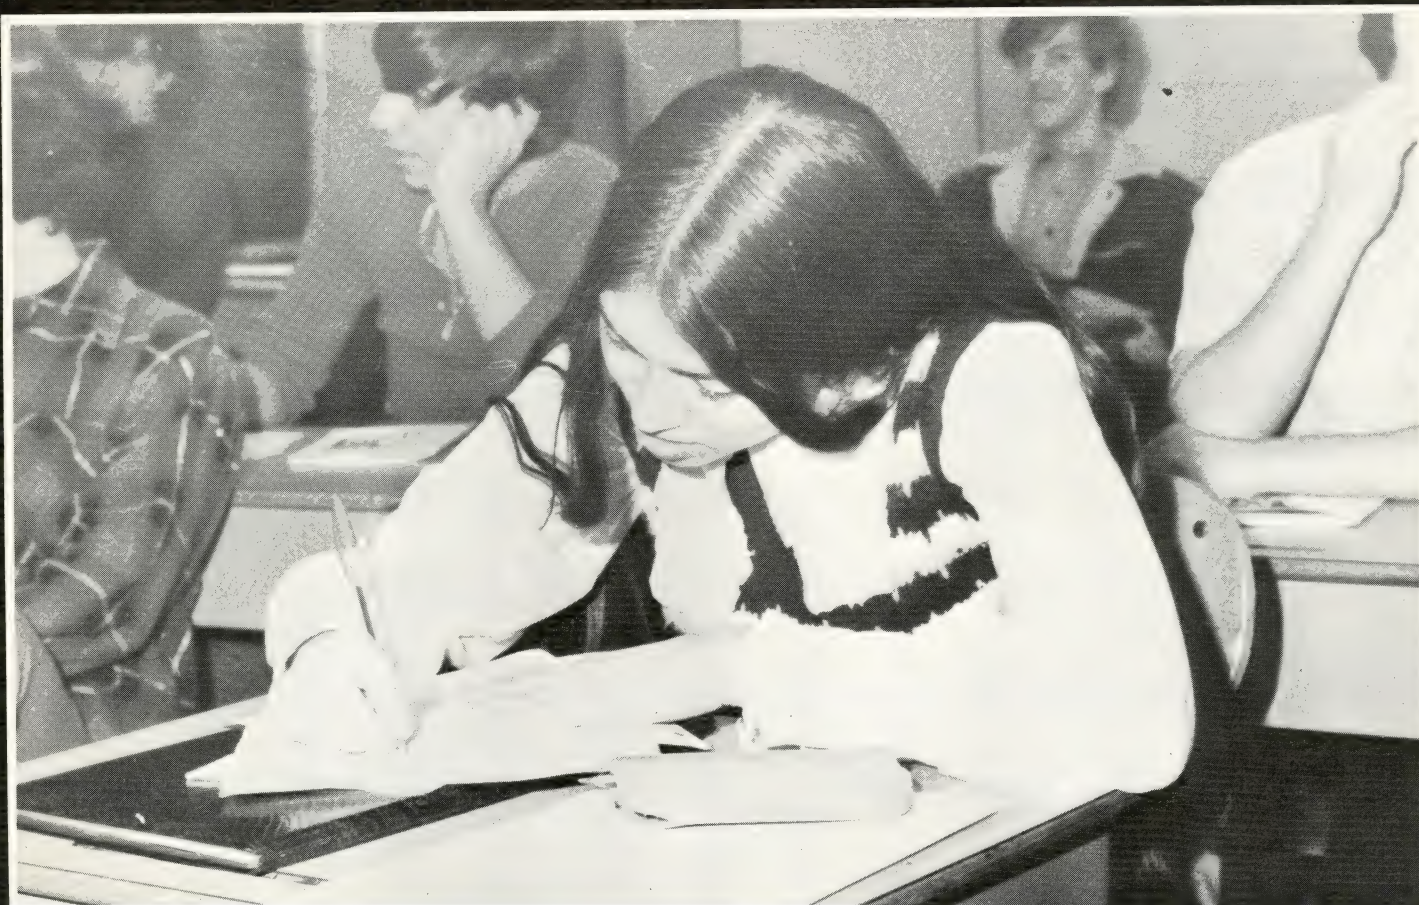

LIFE

One God
from beyond
the heavens
started us.
Started Life.
Mankind today
is Life.
Everyday
someone is born,
and another person
miles away
is dead.
This will go on until someone
somewhere
stops this.
It will probably be
us that
stops this.
Our mistake
Not
HIS.

Silence

Thinking in silence your mind goes astray.
You enter a world all your own.
A world full of all the thoughts you dare to think
But then
Your world falls
crashing
shattering
For someone just opened the door to your room.
